ESTIMATE AID FROM RED CROSS TO BE $300,000

A projected figure of $300,000 is the amount the Red Cross will have to spend on aid to storm disaster victims in the Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Biloxi and Pascagoula areas, according to Harold Denny, Red Cross official last week.

This represents $75,000 per week for a four week period, Denny said has been poured into the economy of the area.

Denny said his office has processed 600 applications for assistance, with an anticipated 50 more in the next three to five days.

This morning Denny said $20,000 had already been spent and that case workers would remain on the job for another several days to give everyone needing assistance the opportunity to apply.

Two new case workers are on the job to help the six who have been working. They are Miss Elaine Ray of Atlanta, an experienced Red Cross worker just off a disaster job in Missouri, and Jo Ann Montgomery who has been with the Keesler AFB Red Cross office.

Denny explained the $300,000 figure may fluctuate but feels it is a realistic estimate.

Denny said the Bay St. Louis workers are faced with victims who have been displaced by the storm and they need low rental property for three to six months. Several families are in this category.

HOUSING ASSISTANCE AVAILABLE TO HURRICANE VICTIMS:

State Director T. B. Fatterree of the Farmers Home Administration has advised local county FHA Offices in South and Southwest Mississippi that emergency funds are available to assist farmers and rural residents repair houses damaged by Hurricane Betsy.

Mr. Fatterree pointed out the fact that this assistance is available to any farmer, or rural resident living in a town of not more than 2,500, whose credit needs cannot be met from conventional sources.

Farmers Home Administration County Supervisors have been authorized to accept applications and process them promptly in order that repairs may be made prior to the advent of winter. Loans made under this authority are amortized over a period not to exceed 33 years at an interest rate of 3 percent.

According to the State Director, this announcement is in keeping with President Johnson's and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman's policy of doing everything possible to meet the needs of those persons whose property was damaged by the recent hurricane.

NASA News..

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The booster that will power this nation's first huge Saturn B space vehicle on its maiden flight rolled out of the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center's Manufacturing Engineering Laboratory here today—exactly on schedule.

The booster, designated the S-IC-1, was moved to the Quality and Reliability Assurance Laboratory where it will be checked out automatically in preparation for static firings.

Upon completion of the check-out, during which the 138-foot long booster will be put through all conditions except actual firings of the engines, the booster will be taken to the Test Laboratory.

There it will be placed in the mammoth S-IC static test stand where it will be captive fired at its full 7.5 million pounds thrust.

Dr. Werner von Braun, director of the Marshall Center, said he would like to rephrase the oft-famous industry slogan, "The difficult we do immediately, the impossible takes a little longer."

Speaking to workers at the rollout ceremony, Dr. von Braun said, "The difficult we do yesterday, the impossible we do today."

The MSFC director, recently returned from vacation, said, "I came back from Athens with the definite impression that we are ahead in preparation for a manned lunar landing. . . . If everyone in the program does as well as you have done in producing this S-IC booster."

Werner Kuers, director of the Manufacturing Engineering Laboratory, praised the government, industry team in the assembly of the giant flight booster.

Following Kuers on the program was Robert C. Dunnigan, Saturn V program executive for the Boeing Co., New Orleans, La. Dunnigan introduced Dieter Grau, director of the Quality and Reliability Assurance Laboratory, who accepted the vehicle on behalf of his laboratory.

The 33-foot diameter booster, the first stage of the three-stage Saturn V rocket destined to carry astronauts to the moon before 1970. With the second stage, the S-II, and the third stage, the S-IVB, and the Apollo spacecraft, the Saturn V will tower 362 feet on the launch pad and weigh six million pounds fully fueled.

The S-IC is under the joint development of the Marshall Center and the Boeing Co. The S-II is manufactured by North American Aviation and the S-IVB by Douglas Aircraft Co.

The S-IC-1 is scheduled for launch in an unmanned flight of the Saturn V in 1967. Unmanned flights to qualify the vehicle will be followed in 1968 by manned flights.

All flights of the Saturn V will be "all-up" missions meaning that all stages will be live.

A "battleship" test model of the S-IC has been tested for full duration and at full power at the Marshall Center. It will undergo further testing before replaced in the stand by the S-IC-1 early next year.

The Marshall Center is responsible for producing four S-IC stages, two test and two flight models. All other S-IC stages will be produced by Boeing at Marshall's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA RETURNS TO BAY

Because of the over whelming support given by Hancock County audiences last season, the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra has included Bay St. Louis in its fall itinerary this year. Two concerts are scheduled to be presented in the gymnasium at Bay High School on Monday, October 25, the matinee performance being restricted to school children through the eighth grade and the evening concert to adults and high school students.

Directed by Werner Torkanowsky, the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra ranks among the nation's finest, and the programs selected for presentation here will provide a delightful variety of musical fare.

Ticket sales for school students will be handled through home room teachers; tickets for the night performance may be obtained at the door or in advance from several local merchants or from Mrs. Dave Pindexter at 487-6545. The price schedule for tickets is as follows: children through the eighth grade, 50 cents; high school students, $1.00; reserved seats for adults, $3.00; and regular seats for adults, $2.00.

APPROVE GRANT TO WAVELAND

Waveland Mayor Garfield Ladner was advised last week by Rep. William M. Colmer that the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare had approved a $177,000 grant to the town of Waveland in connection with plans for construction of a sewage treatment plant, outfall and interceptor sewers.

Mayor Ladner said it is planned to call an election for a bond issue probably in the next few weeks. The bond issue, he added, is expected to be in the amount of approximately $1,600,000.

Plans for the project, which Mayor Ladner said are nearing completion, are being prepared by R. M. Donblatt & Associates, consulting engineers of Gulfport and New Orleans.

JAYCEE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT SURVEY

The kick-off day for the Jaycee Community Development Survey is Thursday, September 30th. Some Jaycees or Jaycettes may have started a little ahead of time, but most of them will start 6:00 P.M. on Thursday, and will try to be through by 9:00 P.M. that night.

The Jaycees request your utmost cooperation on this survey which will give you an opportunity to effectively express yourself about the needs of our community.

The motto of the Jaycees is "Leadership Training and Community Service" and Jaycees in nearly every city in Mississippi are putting this motto into action by conducting this survey during the period of September 27 - October 9, 1965. The majority of questions on the survey form, which will be analyzed by IBM process, require only a pencil check under one of four possible answers. For example, you will be able to say whether or not you feel various community services are Very Good, Adequate, Inadequate, or state that you have no opinion on that particular phase of the survey.

The other phase of the survey asks the interviewed person to state the three most important things which need to be done to make this a better community. The answer to this question alone will give the leadership of Bay Saint Louis a better idea of what the people think really needs to be done.

The results of this survey will be made available to any person or group and will be published in this paper.

J. Norton Haas, Jr. is general chairman of the project. Section chairmen are as follows:

Section 1. Dick Thomas

Section 2. Jack Campbell

Section 3. Don Mahaffey

Section 4. John Christensen

The entire membership of the Jaycee and Jaycette organization will be used to accomplish this project.

Assistance Available To Victims

In Hurricane Betsy's wake in Louisiana and Mississippi the Red Cross will be on the job for several months helping the homeless in the toughest and costliest disaster operation these states in the organization's history, according to reports from New Orleans headquarters to the Hancock County Chapter.

J. Cyril Glover, chapter chairman, said the Red Cross has called in its family casework and building construction specialists from 30 states to help stricken families to recover. Betsy relief is being given in 22 Louisiana parishes and three Mississippi coastal counties, also six counties in south Florida.

"Already registered for help, mostly in Louisiana, are more than 17,000 families," Glover said. "They have received clothing, medical, food and other help of immediate need. Most of them also will need further help in recovery, such as funds for homes reconstruction and re-furnishing, restoration of small businesses which provide family living income, and help in paying for extended medical care of storm injured, rental of temporary living quarters, and other needs."

From Atlanta, Paul M. Moore, Southeastern Area Red Cross district manager, after spending several days in the Louisiana and Mississippi disaster areas, reported to Mr. Glover that as much as $5,000,000 is expected to be expended on the relief job.

"The Red Cross" Moore said, "has both the legal and moral mandate as the nation's official disaster relief agency in meeting human needs. We are doing just that in the Hurricane Betsy operation, and we shall continue for many weeks ahead until the needs are met."

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Management makes the difference between a fish pond and a good fishpond. Cooperation with the Hancock County Soil Conservation District have the right recipe for a fish pond.

1. Start with a suitable pond site (The Soil Conservation Service Technician can help you decide).
2. Construct pond to eliminate shallow edges (water less than 2 ft. encourages weed growth).
3. Stock pond with balanced ratio of game fish from U. S. Fish Hatchery.
4. Fertilize and lime pond according to recommendations from SCS or see Farmers Bulletin No. 2094 "Managing Farm Fishponds for Bass and Bluegills."
5. Fish frequently for bluegills and bass after bass have reproduced in spring.

Fish and wildlife are all part of conservation farming. Landowners receiving assistance in Conservation planning in Hancock County in September are: Tommie Hennings, Clarence Liza, Chester Lee, David Lee, and Victor Peterson.

STATE

FAIR

OCTOBER 11-16,

Social Security

D. Sewell, social security manager in Gulfport, Stone County residents have appeared in some of the country since 1944.

He stated that these men often represent themselves as employees of the Social Security Administration and say they are authorized to sell and payment for health insurance.

He declared, the first defense against these swindlers is accurate information about both kinds of health insurance protection available under the program. Hospital insurance and medical insurance. The most accurate source of such information is the social security office at 1022 S. 22 Avenue, Gulfport. The telephone number is 894-2022.

Medicare information kits are now being mailed to social security and railroad retirement beneficiaries. Each kit contains a booklet that tells the beneficiary what health services he or she gets under the basic hospital insurance plan and what additional supplementary protection is available under the voluntary medical insurance program.

An equally important line of defense against swindlers, Sewell said, is the use of caution. Should a stranger implying that he works for social security call on you, always ask for his identification. If he asks for a fee to obtain a "medicare discount" or an increase in your monthly cash benefits, he's not a social security representative. Bonafide social security representatives never request such fees for trying to help you.

People 65 and older on the social security or railroad retirement rolls do not need to take any action to get the basic hospital insurance protection, Sewell emphasized. But they will need to let the Social Security Administration know that they want to take the voluntary medical insurance by completing and returning the enrollment card mailed to them with their information kit.

People over 65 who are eligible for social security benefits but who haven't applied for them because they are still working should get in touch with the nearest social security district office to apply as soon as possible. Even if they can't collect right now because their current earnings from employment are too high for them to qualify for benefits, they will be eligible for hospital insurance when it starts next July.

People over 65 who have never worked under social security — or who have not worked long enough to qualify for social security benefits — will need to apply for both hospital insurance and the voluntary medical insurance. However, those who are receiving old-age assistance under a public welfare program will get information on how to sign up from their welfare agencies.

People who will be 65 before the end of this year have until March 31, 1966, to apply for the voluntary medical insurance, which requires payment of a $3 monthly premium beginning July 1. This amount is matched by a monthly premium paid by the Government. Hospital insurance and medical insurance protection under social security do not begin until the first of July 1966, Sewell said. He urged persons 65 and older not to cancel prior to this date any hospital insurance or medical insurance they may have.

STATE FAIR TO FEATURE LIVESTOCK AGAIN THIS YEAR

Again this year, the Livestock Department promises to be one of the main attractions at the Mississippi State Fair, to be held in Jackson, October 11-16. E. E. Grissom, general superintendent of the department and extension animal husbandry leader at Mississippi State University, said that the livestock building on the east side of the livestock arena makes for some of the best facilities anywhere in the South.

Top specimens of beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep, poultry and rabbits will be exhibited as in past years.

Because of the increasingly important role beef cattle have played in the state's economic progress, particular attention will be devoted to the fine animals entered in the beef cattle and junior livestock divisions of this department.

Specific rules and regulations for entering livestock in the fair's competition are outlined in the State Fair Catalog. Copies of the catalog can be obtained from H. H. Anson, Executive Secretary of the State Fair, Jackson.

E. E. Grissom will again serve as superintendent of the beef cattle division and will be assisted by R. O. Buckley and W. M. Swoope of State College and C. C. Stone of Jackson. Dr. L. S. Pope, Oklahoma State University, will judge the beef cattle. Premiums in this division total $6,300.

The judging schedule for the beef cattle is: Monday, October 11, 8:30 A.M., judging Santa Gertrudis cattle; Tuesday, October 12, 8:30 A.M., judging baby beefs and Junior Beef Breeding cattle; Wednesday, October 13, 8:00 A.M., judging Hereford cattle (open show); judging Angus cattle (open show) 1:00 P.M.

All animals must be in place by 11:00 A.M., Monday, October 11, and no animal can be removed from the fairgrounds prior to 4:00 P.M. Saturday, October 16, according to division rules as stated in the Fair catalog.

The American Hereford Association will add 33 1/3 per cent of the prizes $4,000 or more offered for registered Hereford breeding cattle in the adult breeding show. Twenty-four lots will be presented in the Hereford Competition, offering four or more prizes each.

In the Aberdeen-Angus competition, some 37 lots are available in the classification in which exhibitors will compete. The all Aberdeen-Angus entries are subject to the provisions of a rule of the American Angus Association entitled "Eligibility, Conformation and Structure of Animals Presented for Exhibition."

The American Shorthorn Breeders Association will pay to the exhibitor of Shorthorn cattle an additional 25 per cent of each individual premium paid by the Fair. Thirty-two lots will compete in this class.

Some 31 lots are provided for the Santa Gertrudis competition, and all animals to be eligible for this show must be approved by a committee designated by the Santa Gertrudis Breeders International. A selected exhibit of this breed

WOOD SHRINKAGE TEST IMPROVED BY FORESTRY RESEARCH

STATE COLLEGE, MISS. — Research at Mississippi State University seeks answers to many problems involving the State's resources. From the Experiment Station Forestry Department, Dean R. T. Clapp reports:

"One problem in wood utilization is dimensional instability. Wood shrinks when it dries and swells when it gets wet. Irregular shrinking and swelling in different parts of the same piece of wood sometimes causes warping, splitting, failure of coatings to adhere."

For a better understanding of the properties of wood which affect shrinkage, the Department of Forestry is studying the shrinkage of southern pine wood in relation to factors which vary between one piece of wood and the next or within the same piece, such as specific gravity, ratio of summerwood to springwood, growth rate, position in the tree, etc.

In the Department of Forestry Dr. Joe Yao, assistant professor, has designed a device for determining the specific gravity of isolated pieces of springwood and summerwood, using particles about 1/8" x 1/8" x 1/2". Standard test blocks are 2" x 2" x 6".

This device is an apparatus in which the wood sample is immersed in mercury and the volume of mercury displaced is measured. Mercury is used because of its high surface tension. In order to be sure the mercury comes in close contact with the wood at all points including jagged and irregular surfaces on the small particles, the apparatus creates pressure on the mercury. The amount of pressure is controlled by the size of a bore through which the mercury is forced out of the apparatus during displacement.

Although the blocks used in this method are only about one-third of the size required for the standard test, results indicate comparability within one percent, Dean Clapp said.

will be shown by the Delta Santa Gertrudis Association, also.

—Junior Livestock—

H. B. Hedgepeth will again serve as superintendent of the Junior Livestock division. He will be assisted by Monroe McElveen, Liberty; Troy V. Majure, Utica; and Glenn See, Clinton.

In the Junior Livestock division each exhibitor is limited to two entries in each lot. Age of exhibitors is restricted to 10 to 20 years, inclusive. Junior Beef Cattle classes include: Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, and steers.

A committee appointed by the livestock superintendent at the beginning of the Junior beef cattle show will select individuals who may come back and compete for showmanship awards.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Hancock County Soil Conservation District Commissioners held their regular monthly meeting Monday night, Sept. 13 in the home of Otho Reiser, Chairman. Other commissioners present were C. T. Favre and W. J. Pippen. Also present were Lewis Watts and Don Click of the Soil Conservation Service.

The SCD Commissioners discussed and adopted an annual work plan for fiscal year 1966. Also a report was given on the recent summer statewide meeting at Natchez.

Ed Sullivan, Biologist, SCS, says, "Fish ponds in this area need lime just as do pastures and cropland." Sullivan says that waters ranging from pH 6.5 to 9.0 at daybreak are most desirable for pond fish production. Under average conditions 500 to 1000 pounds of lime or 400 to 500 pounds of basic-slag per surface acre will correct acid water conditions. This may be applied around the edge of ponds similar to fertilizer.

The tides have been mixed up since the hurricane and don't seem to want to get back to normal. Over last weekend however the tide fell during the afternoon which makes for good green trout and perch fishing. The waters at Pearl River and that section seemed to have had a stirred up appearance with the water looking muddy. According to Roy Baxter very few fish were caught over the weekend. The best fresh water fishing was done up Jordan River where the water was clear.

Salt water fishing has been fair with speckled and white trout being caught off the R.R. and highway bridges and up Jordan River. Down toward the mouth of Pearl River and the shore line at Red Fish Bayou reds and speckles were being caught. Right after the storm big croakers were caught in Jordan River.

Hard crabs were biting to beat the band and according to Emile Schindler they were caught over the weekend by the hamper at Bayou Caddy where only half the pier is standing with everything else gone, thanks to Betsy. Crabs are also being caught along the seawall and at the mouth of Jordan River.

Speckles and white trout were caught along the railroad bridge, with some flounders thrown in.

The teal duck season is not too hot according to those who went out over the weekend. According to reports the ducks left the marshes and went farther west seeking food. Of course the hurricane was charged with destroying the duck food in the marshes. However the season is not over yet.

The first part of the dove season was too hot and proved a farce as far as the number of birds killed. This part of the season ends on October 2nd and the second season opens on October 23rd and runs through November 6th with the third part of the split season opening on December 11th and ending Jan. 12. There should be some good dove shooting when the weather gets colder. The best dove hunting is in the Northern part of the state where there is more planting being done.

he has been too busy to do any fishing of late. Better take a little time off Billy, the fish will be here when you're gone.

Was a pleasure to see Mickey Bullande after a long time no see. Mickey is one of our best golfers and really enjoys the game. See you at the Invitational Tourney, Mickey.

Chris Cressione who is a newcomer here with Yates and Patterson at the Test Site, says he loves to fish and is raring to go. There is plenty of fish and lots of places to go, Chris.

Coach A. H. Morgan, former Coach at St Stanislaus, and family are moving to New Orleans this week. Coach is working at the Timberlane Country Club, at Gretna, La. Good luck Coach in your new undertaking.

Ed Sweeney and sons Douglas and Patrick love their fishing, golfing and skiing. The boys told us something new. They caught catfish and crabs on wieners.

One bright new development in the dark world of the night hunter is a flashlight with rechargeable batteries. This powerful, six-cell light is the creation of life-long coonhunter, Bill Boatman, who runs a mail order dog supply house in his hometown of Bainbridge, Ohio. Boatman decided that there was no reason why batteries should be discarded after a night or two in the woods. He built a recharging unit into his favorite flashlight and now when the light isn't being carried along game trails around Bainbridge, it is plugged into an electric outlet in Bill's home.

This six-cell Dynalite has the batteries arranged in two rows so the overall length is scarcely more than that of a three-cell light. Hunters, campers, boaters and those who drive the highways at night can relax now if they forget to buy new flashlight batteries. The old ones become as good as new. What next!

Ladies Day at Pass Christian Isles Golf Club showed that Mrs. Helen Kohl won the honor with a low net 82 to win the low net tournament held Tuesday. Mrs. John Griffin had 28 putts to win low putts.

The Scharl Bell Tournament has been extended thru Sept. 28th.

Cook-outs are constantly increasing in popularity. Perhaps the most unique are the garfish cook-outs held in the Little River area just north from Pollock, in central Louisiana. Giant gar are usually entered in contests, but large of small, the hides are removed and the meat cooked to the proper turn on a spit over a hot hickory log fire. Louisiana Fish and Game Com.

A state-wide fishing digest, to be called the Angler's Guide, is nearing completion by the Public Relations Department of the Game and Fish Commission.

Members of the department are in the central Mississippi delta this week winding up the project's informational collection data.

C. B. McSwain, PR director, said that the pamphlet should be ready for distribution by the first of October.

The guide will furnish information such as the locations of fishable lakes and streams, types of fish available, sizes of water bodies, types of bait available, and many other items of interest to fishing enthusiasts.

The pamphlet will be available to the public upon request.

For those who love to play golf the 1965 Invitational Golf Tourney will be held Saturday and Sunday Oct. 16 and 17 at Pass Christian Isles Golf Course with practice rounds on Thursday and Friday Oct. 14 - 15. Friday night, October 15 - Shrimp boil - 7:00 p.m.

Saturday, October 16 - Barbecue 7:00 p.m.

Sunday, October 17 - au revoir and awards. Fellowship hour at awards, immediately after play.

You can enjoy the new and larger Club room, the large practice putting green. The course is in excellent playing condition. The greens are beautiful.

Those at Pass Christian Isles Golf Club invite you to participate in their 11th annual invitational tournament. This has always been a great event with wonderful fellowship, good golf, and a time for renewing friendships! It is hoped that 1965 will prove to be no exception!

If you've been promising to take the kids fishing, the Mississippi Games and Fish Commission says now is the time to do it. Best tackle for youngsters is a cane pole or a heavy-weight fly rod. They'll need a long rod to get the bait out far enough from shore or boat to make up for lack of skill. Use worms, dead shrimp, or crickets near lily pads or other cover, and keep the youngsters just far enough away from cover to keep them from snagging their lines.

Kids love to catch bluegill, white perch, bass, and if the truth be known, anything that will sink a cork. There's no size limit on these fish in Mississippi, and they make for fine eating. Youngsters under 16 don't need a fishing license, but the rest of us do!

Mrs. Walter Dupaquier left today for Montreal, Canada, for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hicks and daughters Kim and Kathy.

It is easy for the kids to learn to troll. They will catch speckles, green trout, reds, and other salt water fish.

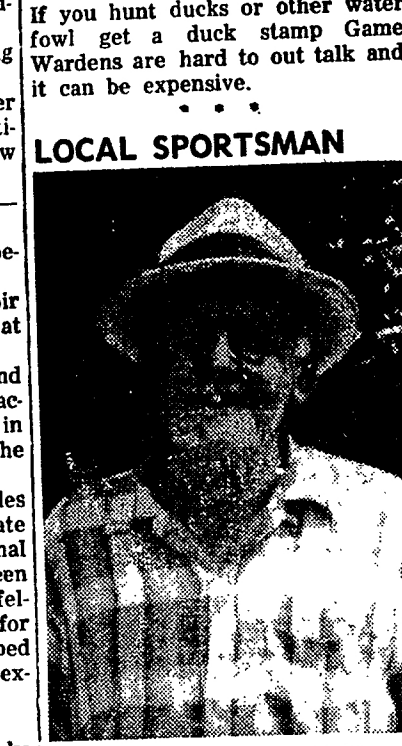

It won't be long until the game seasons are upon us, reminds the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, and now is the time to begin preparations for those weekend hunts.

Two very important things should be done by hunters wishing to have a successful season this year. First get acquainted with the landowner where you plan to hunt. Most landowners will cheerfully give permission to hunt if you only ask, and practice common courtesy. Secondly, get in practice by shooting clay targets. A hand-trap and a box of clays is a cheap investment that will pay big dividends during hunting season.

Life belts or other safety devices should be worn by those who do not know how to swim. When fishing from a boat.

Just a reminder. Do not go hunting without that hunting license. It is cheaper in the long run. If you hunt ducks or other water fowl get a duck stamp. Game Wardens are hard to out talk and it can be expensive.

LOCAL SPORTSMAN

CHARLES BANDERET

Charles as he is better known was always an outdoors man and good sport. With his friends he did most any kind of fishing and usually got his share. At hunting he knew many old timers in the county and locating and hunting doves was his hobby. At his age today he is hale and hearty and enjoys watching baseball, football and boxing on T. V. He likes to watch the horses run but doesn't contribute anything to their feed bills.

Mrs. Walter Dupaquier left today for Montreal, Canada, for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hicks and daughters Kim and Kathy.

WHAT'S THE SUM OF AN EDUCATION DOLLAR'S SENSE?

Plants, Ga. - "Failure of high age youths, working or unad, to return to the class this season may well be a tragic mistake."

This statement was made by McKaig, chairman of the Labor Department's Regional here, on the recent opening of the "Back-to-School" drive in the southern states: Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

The drive is sponsored by the President's Youth Opportunity Council chaired by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Initiated at the President's request, the drive is aimed at preventing an estimated 750,000 boys and girls in the United States from becoming dropouts this school year.

More than ever before, our society now demands a high school diploma. Every effort is being made through Federal, State and local programs to make it possible for all youths to at least complete high school," Miss McKaig stated.

WHAT'S THE SUM OF AN EDUCATION DOLLAR'S WORTH?

Atlanta, Ga. — "Failure of high school age youths, working or unemployed, to return to the classroom this season may well be a tragic mistake," a statement made by the Labor Department's Regional Office here, on the recent opening of the "Back-to-School" drive in the Southeastern states: Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina. The drive is sponsored by the President's Youth Opportunity Council chaired by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Initiated at the President's request, the drive is aimed at preventing an estimated 750,000 boys and girls in the United States from becoming dropouts this school year. More than ever before, our society now demands a high school diploma. Every effort is being made through Federal, State and local programs to make it possible for all youths to at least complete high school," Miss McKaig said.

"Such youths are the first to be laid off and are usually the last to be hired. The labor market for the uneducated, the undereducated and the unskilled workers has been steadily shrinking. The dropout ordinarily has a much more limited choice of jobs. These jobs often are at low pay and with limited chance for advancement. "When the school dropout is unemployed, he remains so for a longer period of time than the graduate. In recent years there has been a consistently higher percentage of unemployment among dropouts than among high school graduates," Miss McKaig reported.

The latest Labor Department statistics relating average life-time income with the level of educational attainment reveal that:

- Persons having less than a grammar school (eight years) education will have life-time earnings of $143,000.
- Those with a grammar school education will earn $184,000.
- High school graduates will make $247,000.
- Individuals with some college education will get $289,000.
- College graduates will earn $417,000.

"However, this isn't just a matter of money," Miss McKaig said. "The American dream is for each youngster to realize his or her highest individual potential to become a self-confident, productive and effective citizen."

"This is becoming more difficult without a high school education. Many youths, now employed but who haven't graduated from cash in their pockets from a high school, can be deceived by glib pay check into a false sense of security."

"Such youths are the first to be laid off and are usually the last to be hired. The labor market for the uneducated, the undereducated and the unskilled workers has been steadily shrinking."

Occasionally people approach us for solutions to some personal and theological problems; whereas they hesitate to approach priests. Brother Michael declared, "Missionary Brothers need training in contemporary theology, some psychology as well as sociology." Brother Stephen added, "Candidates to the missionary Brotherhood should also study foreign languages. This contact with the mechanics of a foreign language will equip the missionary Brother for language study in the missions. It's a great asset for the brother to speak the language of the people."

Queried as to the adaptation of local African languages to supplement Latin in the liturgy of the Church, the Brothers countered that the Africans themselves loath to drop the Latin. To their way of thinking Latin prayers are a "Powerful Prayer" in a group discussion on African S. V. D. Brother stated, "To drop the Latin would be a step backwards for us. We have been raised by our knowledge of Latin." Local African seminarians also recognize the prestige value of Latin gives them in the eyes of the people.
